

Role: Digital Media Product Analyst at Latinx Startup (Remote)

Organization: Pulso - A Digital Organizing Venture Increasing Political Power for Latinx Voters

Location: Full-time, 100% remote position (from home or co-working space) with occasional travel once every 2-3 months

About Pulso

Pulso is a digital organizing venture increasing the political power of Latinx voters across the country. We're building a digital platform that delivers daily content - via Facebook Messenger and Instagram - that's culturally relevant to our Latinx subscribers, thus cultivating deep, trusted digital relationships with them online and then leveraging those relationships towards political action offline. By 2020 Pulso aims to develop deep (daily or weekly) digital relationships with more than 1.5 million Latinx/Hispanic voters and to achieve financial self-sustainability. Our ultimate goal is to leverage this digital platform to advance policy change by building Latinx/Hispanic power through increased advocacy and voter engagement.

To see the digitally-based service we're building, search for "Project Pulso" in the Facebook Messenger app. You can also learn more about our work at <https://projectpulso.org/>.

Pulso is a project of Accelerate Change (AC), a nonprofit organization that incubates and supports social ventures. Drawing upon the lessons from some of the largest and most impactful social change institutions, AC's theory of change is based on the idea that membership organizations can experience explosive, financially sustainable growth when they provide a robust set of benefits and services that have an outstanding value to the people they seek to organize ("functional organizing"). For more on AC's model for scalable citizen organizing read, "The Secret of Scale" from the Stanford Social Innovation Review. AC uses Lean Startup methodologies and other business strategies. For more about AC's approach to experimentation read, "The Promise of Lean Experimentation" also from the Stanford Social Innovation Review.
